This is the real Spring.

The Vermont Anti-saloon League will feel the public pulse to be quite normal.

They stood in the hall at midnight—they had been holding a city council meeting.

Gorky's glowing opinion of America and everything American may have been altered since he was asked to leave two New York hotels because of "Mrs.
 Gorky."

The headline editors of several of the able dailies in this state need a little instruction from their editors-in-chief. The recent announcement that a murderer had been sentenced to death in Massachusetts bore the display head that he was to be hanged. A short time previous these same dailies proclaimed in headlines that Tucker, convicted of murder in that state, could not escape the gallows. Massachusetts substituted electricity for the rope eight years ago.
 —Northfield News.

And that is not so bad as the mistake of a staff writer on the Boston Transcript, who in referring to the Tucker case last week, repeatedly spoke of the "hanging" of the man at such a time. If a regular newspaper employee of a reputable Boston newspaper does not recollect that the electric chair has been substituted for the gallows in Massachusetts, then Vermont headline editors are not so much to be blamed.
 In this state the word "execution" and "hanging" have become so nearly synonymous that it is perhaps difficult to distinguish for the rope eight years ago.
 tions outside the state.

THE CONGRESSIONAL FIELD.

There is little doubt that Frank Plumley of Northfield would have carried with him a considerable following if he had decided to enter the Republican convention for nominating a candidate for Congress in this district; but that his chances for success would have been superior to either Governor Bell or Representative Haskins in that convention, as he stated in his letter of declination yesterday, is open to question. If he had decided to enter the three-cornered contest he might have been nominated, as in contests of that nature there is nothing certain. And the same might be said of either one of the others who are already avowed candidates.
 Mr. Plumley must have been in an extremely sanguine state of mind to allow himself to make such an assertion.
 We fancy that neither Governor Bell nor Representative Haskins, the one with a reputation of having been a most stirring governor and the other with a creditable record in Congress to back him up, really felt in a position to make such a sweeping claim. But Mr. Plumley was sanguine; he admits it. So far as known there was no great call for him to be a candidate, but there was an expectancy that he would be because of his prominence in the last fight over the nomination; therefore expectancy may have become confused with a popular demand.

However, Mr. Plumley's main standing at this early date that he should not enter the contest, in spite of a "long-time aspiration," is to be commended. It will be noted in passing that Judge Plumley does not relinquish all claim for political preferment of this sort, but that he gives up the idea for "this year" for reasons which pleasant remedy you can take. It will quickly overcome any disordered con-
